BUILT TOGETHER. RISING TOGETHER.

Since 1966, Piedmont Technical College has been built by the students, families, employers, and communities of our region, and built for them in return.

What started as a single building in Greenwood County has grown into an institution serving around 8,500 students each year across eight locations in seven counties.

That growth belongs to everyone who invested in it: the students who took a chance on a new path, the employers who partnered with us, the faculty and staff who showed up every day, and the communities who claimed this college as their own.

Explore 60 years of our shared story at ptc.edu/60.

OUR HISTORY IS YOUR HISTORY.

As we mark 60 years, we are celebrating the moments, milestones, and people who made Piedmont Technical College what it is today, and what it will become.

Visit ptc.edu/60 to explore our interactive timeline, discover the stories behind the numbers, and see how our region has grown alongside our college.

You will find:

- 60 years of milestones, from our first 300 students to 8,500 served each year
- Stories of students, faculty, and community partners who built this college together
- New content added throughout the year as our celebration unfolds
- Ways to share your own connection to Piedmont Tech
